

THE GREAT SECRET OF THE GHANAIAIAN MARKET

The cheapest foods at Kejetia are healthier than the most expensive snacks at the mall. Eating well on a student budget is not a money problem.

IT IS A KNOWLEDGE PROBLEM

Small Budget

Nutrition per Cedi (ROI)

The Lie: Healthy eating is only for the rich.

The Reality: 'Rich-people' foods (sugary drinks, instant noodles) are nutritionally bankrupt. Village foods (millet, beans, groundnuts) are biological gold.

THE HUMAN ENGINE SCHEMATIC

THE FULL TANK, NO OIL TRAP

THE DANGER PLATE

THE CHAMPION PLATE

THE PLATE RULE: No measuring scale needed. Look at your plate.

TRAP 1: FILLING VS. FEEDING

GHS [X] spent

Output: Stretched stomach, shortchanged body.

GHS [X] spent

Output: Sustained energy, muscle repair, exact same money spent.

*“The mountain of carbohydrate is just the spoon.
The protein is the meal.”*

TRAP 2: DRINKING YOUR MONEY

THE TRAP

1 Bottled Sugary Drink + Biscuits = GHS [X]

Empty calories.

THE FIX

1 Boiled Egg + 1 Banana + Pure Water = GHS [X]

Sugar is the most expensive cheap thing in the market.

TRAP 3: THE FAKE SAVINGS OF NO BREAKFAST

THE GOB& FLEX: A MASTERCLASS

THE BRICKS.

Rebuilding muscle and tissues.

complete street meals on planet earth. Facts.*

READ THE MARKET LIKE A NUTRITIONIST

★ SEASONAL = CHEAP = FRESH.

Don't pay off-season prices. If it's mango season, eat mangoes daily.

★ WHOLE > PROCESSED.

Real fruit beats fruit drink. Whole maize koko beats sugary imported cereal.

★ HEAVY ≠ HEALTHY.

A meal's weight measures stomach fullness, not cellular nourishment.

★ THE COLOUR RULE.

A balanced plate has Green (Kontomire), Red (Tomato/Palm), White/Brown (Protein), Gold (Carb).

THE BLUEPRINT: PROTEIN STRETCHING

★ The Ghanaian mother's genius. Stretching high-value, low-cost proteins across multiple meals ensures everyone gets 'bricks' without breaking the budget.
